

the power to grant admission to bail in any case. I would not question the motives of Judge McDonald."

The reporter said: "There is no intention whatever to question the motives of Judge McDonald. I am merely trying to find out for readers of The Day Book whether there is a fixed rule of the courts in cases of this kind. You argued before Judge McDonald that it looked to you like deliberate murder and there was no evidence showing self-defense. Is it a fact that a court can grant bail to a gunman who doesn't bring in any evidence of self-defense, proof that he was in danger?"

"It is in the discretion of the court to grant bail in any case, no matter what the evidence," replied the state's attorney's bonding specialist.

POLICEWOMAN ARRESTS PAIR— SUSPECTS WHITE SLAVERY

Policewoman Mary Crot of the S. Clark street station will get into touch with the federal authorities following the arrest of a man and a girl, who claim to be husband and wife, in the Dearborn street station.

The policewoman saw the girl, with her hair in braids, wandering around the railroad station July 6. After a time a man joined the girl and they started off together.

Miss Crot followed and stopped the couple. She took the girl aside and questioned her. The girl said her name was Mrs. Lucy Rappetti and that she married the man with her in Canada.

Then the policewoman quizzed the man. He gave the name of Charles Smitteri and said he married the girl in Pittsburgh. After hearing these two stories the policewoman brought the couple to the station.

The couple says they are both from Fairmont, W. Va. The girl has made no admissions so far to the police.

The police received a message from Fairmont asking that they hold "Frank Ochepinti." The description in general fits Smitteri. He denies he is the man, but says he knows the one wanted.

MANY CLUES, NO SOLUTION, IN FREEPORT MURDER

Freeport, L. I., July 8.—With almost incredible stories coming from different sources, Detective William J. Burns declares the mystery of the murder of Mrs. Louise Bailey, shot down in Dr. Edward Carman's office, is a comparatively simple case.

One story is that of a gunman who claims he and another gunman were hired by a mysterious woman to kill the doctor and were to receive $50 each for the murder. That they went to the Carman home, were met by the woman, who accompanied them to the window outside the doctor's office. She snatched the gun from one of the men and fired the shot herself, after which she disappeared.

Another story told by J. Howe, Philadelphia, is to the effect that in the summer of 1913 a woman whose name is not disclosed declared "that man, Dr. Edward Carman, ruined my husband and myself. He ruined our lives and I will be revenged on him. I will murder that man if it takes a lifetime."
